Bosch Security Systems Product Training

March - November 2021

Training program delivered by Bosch & our distributors

"Training staff is one of the best investments businesses can make."

Invest in your present, and your future

Training your staff to the highest possible level is an enormous investment in the present as well as the future. In the long term it saves you money and brings in profit. With greater customer satisfaction, reduced call back rates and increased referrals, a highly-skilled workforce is your biggest asset.

Bosch specific courses

Training is an essential part of our total approach to customer support and satisfaction. Bosch Security offers classroom technical training sessions for direct trade account customers. Distributors also offer Bosch technical product training courses to their trade customers. Training is offered on an as-required basis, at either our training facility at Baulkham Hills, NSW, or at our selected interstate third party training locations. Training courses may also be held at our distributor offices around the country, or at a customers' premises where the number of attendees is large enough. So you can always rely on high quality and professional guidance when you chose to install Bosch Security products.
